Online Academic Advisor is a community portal that brings together students and academics from all subjects worldwide to promote academic discussion and socialising. The portal has grown 100% in the last 4 weeks.

An exciting new source for the educational community has just come up on the internet. The website is called Online Academic Advisor <http://www.OnlineAcademicAdvisor.com> The social networking website brings educators and students together in a wonderful form. From Forums, to the exciting communities in which can be participated in. Educators and students are finally connected to discuss topics including history, economics, medicine, theology and many others. Best of yet the website is great to friends just by adding them to your friends list, join other discussions and many other things. Educators can now finally meet with other students across continents, to propose scholarships to students and best of yet have scholarships accepted by incoming students.

What a wonderful idea and should be on THE BEST OF THE WEB PAGES
