USA, May 25,2007.....We all love food and so do our dogs, but unfortunately most owners share their human food and snacks with the dogs which leads to canine disease and obesity. Even the commercial dog foods which you think will add nutritional value will neither does that nor help your dog stay healthy.

But many of the dog owners are not aware of the fact that commercial foods are woefully deficient in key nutrients, the long term effect of feeding such foods makes the dog hypersensitive to its environment.

The commercial dog food is kills your dog because of the presence of chemicals in the form of preservatives. A recent study on the commercial dog food stated that it contains at least 6 deadly chemicals that have been banned from human foods because they cause various types of cancers, organ failures and many more heartless ways to die.

Even some reports are of the view that the commercial dog food contains the processed faeces (crap) of other dead animals. Not to mention about pet collars, flea collars, ID tags and plastic bags. So the best way to keep your dog healthy and provide him the best and most nutritious food is to prepare some food for him at homeFor this purpose Don Barton's ebook is a great helpful resource for pet lovers. The ebook tells the best recipes for old and young dogs. It also tells how prepare very economical but highly nutritious food for the dog from your kitchen.No need to buy costly ingredients from bazar. The ebook also tells some great methods of making dog shampoo,eliminate dog bad breath, dog safe insecticides all from homemade ingredients.
