Today Joel Pearce launched his new blog on mini crib bedding. Many mothers these days are finding that shopping online provides many benefits it's never been easier to compare prices or just browse around.

There are many factors to consider when purchasing crib bedding online there are thousands of web sites to chose from. Simple things like the material, colour coordination and most important of all is safety.

There are a lot of parents choosing to go with custom design cribs and crib bedding. Plenty of web sites are now offering these services. The big benefits from using such services are that parents can now enjoy designing and decorating there own nursery. Finding what you and you're partner are looking for is just a simple mouse click away or is it .Its highly recommended that parents do some solid research into anything they are considering purchasing over the net especially when it comes to products for baby's.

Research preformed by Dr. Jim Sprott a New Zealand scientist states with clear certainty that crib death also known as cot death or sids can be tracked back to second-hand mattresses. Chemicals that have been added in the foam to help with Fire retardants mixed with a fungus that grows on the top layer of the mattress can cause a deadly chemical reaction leading to the death of an infant.

Custom design cribs can also have safety issues so the need for information is critical for the safety of the new addition to the family. The new mini crib bedding blog provides all types of this information from safety issues to finding good cheap quality products. Even if you would like to go that little bit further and find some exotic bedding for baby, well its here as well.
