

Harmony Partners, 2 Years Of A Better Free Online Dating Experience

Some free online dating sites are little more than portals to adult sites, often scaring off more reticent customers. Harmony Partners has been challenging that perception for 2 years now, offering a much more pleasant free online dating experience

Harmony Partners is fast approaching its second anniversary as the friendliest, completely free online dating service around.

Launched in 2005, Harmony Partners has an increasingly rich and diverse membership from across the globe attracted not only by the totally free registration and subscription-free membership but also by its unique commitment to providing a reassuring and safe online dating experience.

What has made Harmony Partners special is its approach to online dating. Signing up is 100% free and very simple. Following verification of their email address, a member can browse through the hundreds of profiles and photographs online and then post his or her own.

But right from the outset, realising that offering a free service would almost certainly attract the wrong kind of membership, Harmony Partners' staff at their Kent, UK based office, decided to personally review every profile. They also vet all photographs submitted, so removing everything of a pornographic, racist, threatening or otherwise inappropriate nature.

Harmony Partners is open to everyone, regardless of their cultural and religious background or sexual orientation. However, our careful approach attracts hundreds of new members every month who may previously have been put off by the nature and reputations of some of the other online dating services. For instance, we have a growing membership interested in Christian dating and also an increasing number of members from China, where censorship almost certainly denies access to some of the more risqué sites.

So whether you're looking for men or looking for women, a Christian single looking for love and romance or just seeking friendship and somebody to chat to and you thought online dating sites weren't for you, think again – think Harmony Partners, the pleasant alternative.

Harmony Partners, the fastlane to love, happiness and romance.
