Live Business Center Changing How Biz is done online!

June 16, 2007 - PRLog -- Worldprofit Inc. at <http://www.worldprofit.com> has made another technological breakthrough with the release of their Live Business Center. This company has been pioneering how business is done online since 1994. With the Live Business Center they have done it again! The system provides real time interaction between customers and company. Customers logging in to a website can be greeted immediately by someone onscreen LIVE and in real time. The tool takes customer service to a new level with live, full colour audio and video! Real people on the site welcoming customers or site surfers. As customers or prospective customers arrive on a website they can be welcomed, made aware of current offers and promotions, directed to key links on the website, or an order can be placed immediately.

Worldprofit Inc., already known for their low cost webcasting tools, already has a fan following from small and home based business owners running a home based business, consultancy or training. Dr. Jeffrey Lant, CEO of Worldprofit.com says that business owners love what the Live Business Center software offers their business and their customers.
