BugonPtc.com, a well known leader in providing paid per click advertising services to businesses worldwide, announced the release of worldwide demographic data in an effort to educate advertisers on the widespread exposure their website is receiving through their quality pay per click advertising services. The report shows significant movement toward advertiser awareness and letting potential buyers know what are buying prior to investing money.

The report breaks down traffic by all continents in the world and then goes to show the countries that are a significant part of these countries. This comprehensive report goes as far as to break down visitors by U.S. cities showing that people from 447 cities have visited or have been an active participant of the website. In addition to breaking down users by country, the report further demonstrates significance by showing the operating system, browser, screen color capabilities, flash version, and even whether users have support for java on their systems. The data was collected through google.com's analytics tools and helps companies like bugonptc.com to demonstrate their ability to provide quality exposure to clients.
