

Vicki Zerbee is Proud to Represent Alternative Health Company with Revolutionary, Patented Nutrition

For fifty years, there has been a leader in the alternative health and wellness industry that has consistently introduced solid nutrition products based on science, safety, purity and efficacy.

Aug. 11, 2007 - PRLog -- True scientific research exists behind each and every product in this brand, and the positive results faithful consumers have received for all of these years is the greatest testament.

Vicki Zerbee, Sales Leader, states, "It is almost like this alternative health company is a well guarded secret after 50 years. We aren't trying to keep it a secret, but the fact that these products have mainly been shared person-to-person for all of these years is the reason why it takes time to get the word out. However, with the growing online presence, and the company expanding around the world, the secret is going to be out in a big way."

There may not be another company as remarkable as a quiet 50 year old health and wellness industry leader. The ethical standards that were set in the beginning and that continue today set it apart from any other company in their market. The very best research and development scientists have been retained by a company that over fifty years ago pioneered the natural nutrition movement. The founder had a vision to create healthier lives for people, and he set a path to do this in combination with the philosophy of keeping the products in harmony with nature.

The company, and this alternative health brand, was designed to improve the lives of everyone it touched and to be guided always by the Golden Rule. Independent distributors, company employees, and loyal customers take great pride in the fact that these visions have held steady through the years. There are not many, if any, manufacturers of natural nutrition products that can make the claims this company can. The highest standards for ingredient quality and purity, product safety and efficacy, have always and will always exist with this brand.

$250+ million, that is 250 million dollars, has been invested in clinical testing, research and development. Over 100 studies have been published on this brand of products. All ingredients are scientifically proven, with vitamins and minerals rated as pharmaceutical grade. The best botanical ingredients available are used. Products are free of artificial colors, added starches, and chemical preservatives. There is gold standard quality assurance, with extensive testing for pesticides, heavy metals and microbial contamination. It is most impressive to note that more than 83,000 tests are performed each year.

The process of creating a product begins with looking for a natural solution to a specific health problem. Product ingredient decisions are made using safety as the #1 strategic and critical decision factor. This alternative health brand is not about a 'product of the month', or following in the footsteps of another. Product development is quite extensive and many times a very lengthy process in the quest for excellence.

Scientists who represent this brand set the highest standard of quality in the marketplace. A new online resource for physicians and health care professionals is a great addition to the company's public website. For new consumers who would like to learn more about alternative health products, it is worth the research to consider this brand as a potential natural nutrition choice.

Measurable results have been proven for over fifty years, the highest standards of quality and safety are in place, and the 100% money back guarantee is quite an attractive factor. Zerbee states, "That guarantee is wonderful to share, and a great testament to the confidence we have in the products. A company would be out of business if it returned all money spent on its products. The amazing thing is that there are almost zero returns that I know about; I have had none. The bottom line is that the products work.”
