

Albert A. DeNapoli of Tarlow Breed Hart & Rodgers to Chair Neponset Valley Chamber.

By Steve Dubin/PR Works

Dated: Jan 25, 2008

DeNapoli has an extensive record of community involvement, giving truth to the old axiom 'to get a job done give it to a busy man.'

DATELINE: BOSTON, MA...

Albert A. DeNapoli, Esq., of Tarlow Breed Hart & Rodgers, P.C. in Boston, is no stranger to civic involvement. Call out "Mr. Chairman!" in the vicinity of DeNapoli and he good-naturedly responds automatically.

Most recently, DeNapoli assumed the mantle of Chairman of the Board at the 113th Annual Meeting of the Neponset Valley Chamber of Commerce, which featured Governor Deval Patrick as the keynote speaker.

In addition to his duties as a partner at Tarlow Breed Hart & Rodgers P.C., where DeNapoli focuses his practice on civil litigation, and chairs the firm's Hospitality Practice Group, he also has an extensive record of community involvement, giving truth to the old axiom 'to get a job done give it to a busy man.'

Chairing a board seems to be second nature to DeNapoli, a resident of Walpole, MA, where he currently chairs the Walpole Board of Selectmen, serving the first year of his second three-year term on the board. He was on Walpole's Finance Committee for seven years as well, serving four of those years as Chairman.

DeNapoli is also currently the Immediate Past National President of the Commission for Social Justice, the anti-defamation arm of the Order of the Sons of Italy in America, serving as its President for the past four years, after previously serving as National Treasurer and Vice-President. From 1999-2003 he was also the Chairman of the Massachusetts Commission for Social Justice.

As Jeffrey P. Hart, Esq., a founding member of Tarlow, Breed, Hart & Rodgers, notes, "Al DeNapoli epitomizes Tarlow, Breed, Hart & Rodgers' commitment to fostering a corporate culture that supports the demands of a work-life balance. Multi-faceted civic experience contributes to the dynamics of the firm, making us better equipped to understand and serve the diverse needs of our clients."
