Dated: Feb 04, 2008

Professionals can find a seminar closer to home when searching by state and even city on the SeminarInformation.com database of seminars and conferences.

SeminarInformation.com, the largest database of seminars on the the Internet, makes it easy for visitors to find local seminars, convenient dates and then register online, by phone or fax.

"We have over 360,000 seminars from over 600 seminar sponsoring organizations," states Mona Piontkowski, EVP of SeminarInformation.com. "We want you to be able to find a seminar locally, read the complete outline on our website, find a convenient date and then with the click of your mouse register for that seminar on our website."

Since 1981 Seminar Information Service, Inc. producers of the SeminarInformation.com website have been compiling a seminar database, first published in the SIS WORKBOOK and now available on the Internet.

"We've just added a new feature so that you can search what's coming to your state easily." adds Piontkowski. "We have always offered a search by topic, title or keyword."

Skillpath, Compumaster, National Seminars, Fred Pryor, CareerTrack, the American Management Association, Linkage, Learning Tree International, Global Knowledge, Cross Country Education, MIS, ESI, Cornell University, UCLA, Lorman Seminars and Padgett Thompson are just a few of the many sponsors who list their seminars on the SeminarInformation.com website.

Topics include health care, management, leadership, human resources, finance and accounting, computers and software to name just a few.

Seminar experts are available at 877 SEM-INFO to answer any questions, make recommendations and enroll individuals and teams in upcoming seminars.
