

Metro Atlanta Chapter of Home Stagers Unite to Network and Educate

The Metro Atlanta Chapter of the American Society of Home Stagers and Re-designers (ASHSR) is scheduled to meet on Tuesday, March 12, 2008 for the monthly chapter meeting at Brook Furniture Rental Showroom in Norcross, GA.

March 6, 2008 - PRLog -- ASHSR is nationwide organization that is uniting home stagers on local level with an effort to further develop the home staging industry through development, education and networking. The Metro Atlanta Chapter, established in December 2007, is still in the early stages of growth and development, however, has plans to reach out to both area real estate professionals and area homeowners with the intentions of educating about the benefits of home staging to both parties. The Metro Atlanta chapter has members strategically located throughout the Atlanta area.

Members include:

Annette Burnett of Sellers Advantage Home Staging; John's Creek Area

“As a result of numerous relocations, I understand first-hand how frustrating it can be to live in a home that is on the market, waiting for the right buyer to come along and also how difficult it can be to find just the right house to make a home for our family. I started my home staging business because I am passionate about helping to connect buyers and sellers through my talent for revealing the often-times hidden potential of a home and showcasing it to its best advantage to draw buyers in. Sellers Advantage Home Staging transformations leave a beautiful and lasting impression on buyers.”

Abby Reilly of ALR Home Staging and Showcasing; Woodstock Area
“With a background in retail merchandising, I have been trained to see things from a customer’s perspective. This is an important skill as a home stager because most homeowners do not have the ability to see their home objectively as they are emotionally connected to the house and their belongings within it. I provide my clients with the objective information to transform their home into a buyers dream house by highlighting the key selling features of the house while creating functional and enticing living spaces that is most attractive to the target home buyers.”
