

New Modular Homes Design Center Opens in Edison, New Jersey

A new modular homes design center by Modular Homes, Inc. will open this month in Edison, New Jersey. The new center will show customers actual house sets with customizable floor plans. Kitchens, cabinetry, windows and doors will be showcased.

March 8, 2008 - PRLog -- Located in central New Jersey, a new design center by Modular Homes, Inc. will enable clients to review products and materials in order to customize the look of their new modular home. The center will feature top of the line products from vendors like Moen kitchen and bath fixtures, Merillat cabinetry, and Jeld-Wen windows and doors, just to name a few.

The design center from Modular Homes, Inc. features a full service kitchen showcasing GE slim-line appliances and Merillat cabinetry. Upon entering the design center, customers will be welcomed by a cozy fire place in the sitting area, where they can review catalogs featuring the custom built modular homes for which Modular Homes, Inc. is known. In addition, clients can view an actual house set displayed on the flat panel television above the fireplace.

At the Edison location, customers can also meet with a Sales Specialist and Architect to develop their own customized floor plan. All the details are covered, from the layout of the space, to the placement of lighting and electrical fixtures.

The design center will also serve as the new home office location for the staff. Modular Homes, Inc. also maintains offices in Morristown, Essex County, and Atlantic Highlands, Monmouth County. While the company is based in New Jersey, Modular Homes, Inc. serves customers on nationwide, and is currently working on projects in northern New Hampshire and upstate New York as well as with architects based in Seattle, Washington.

The Edison location was developed in collaboration with Design 446, a full service advertising and marketing company that specializes in the building industry. Design 446 is located in Manasquan, New Jersey.
