Garh Jaisal, a favourite hotel in Jaisalmer fort because of its bohemian opulence. This summer, prepare to stay longer to enjoy the golden desert special and signature secret service.

Rajasthan, India ~ it has been a year since Garh Jaisal Haveli Hotel began entertaining visitors with a unique perspective of Jaisalmer in seven jewel toned rooms atop the wall of the 11th century fort. Now, Eco-Res Garh Jaisal Haveli Hotel delights with little extras that are kept top secret until guests arrive – The staff say they do it for themselves because they love the reactions!

“One of our strengths is watching and listening to the guests and anticipating their needs” says General Manager, Mukesh Chouhan. “The visitors are like family and you want them to experience Jaisalmer in a way that they are comfortable”.

This means that some will enjoy a full day out and about with Raj, a local expert on the Fort and surroundings, and they will return filled with incredible stories. Others will want to spend down time being catered to with comforts and treats on the rooftop terrace.

As with any travel journey, there are hiccups which can occur due to luggage, weather and schedules. “The last thing we want is for people who arrive having had a blip in their trip and feel like all they want is to be at home. We ensure they leave feeling better when they arrived and if this doesn’t happen, we have failed.” This statement from Jacqui McMullen of Eco-Res citing attentiveness as the number one goal for Garh Jaisal.

Garh Jaisal exists inside the second oldest fort in Rajasthan, an architectural feat of Bhati Rajput ruler Rawal Jaisal, who began building in 1156. The city of Jaisalmer was positioned strategically and was a halting point along a traditional trade route traversed by the camel caravans of Indian and Asian merchants. The route linked India to Central Asia ,Egypt, Arabia, Persia, Africa and the West. Once the seatriade began to flourish, the caravan trade dwindled and Jaisalmer felt the affects. Now it has a rising tourist trade and is truly unlike anywhere else, as it rises like a mirage from the desert floor with camels abound. Garh Jaisal is proud to allow visitors to imagine a life from their ancient viewpoint.

This summer, Eco-Res and the Garh Jaisal team are focused on making visitors smile even wider. Each booking made on the garhjaisal.com website for a stay between May 1 and August 31, 2008 will receive 32% savings with the Golden Desert special.
