

Vology Corporation Releases the World's Fastest Gaming Laptop

In very simple terms, Mr. Stubbs clearly stated "...extreme mobile gamers are in for a huge surprise."

March 11, 2008 - PRLog -- Quincy, MA-- Today Vology announced the release of the company's latest gaming solutions, Limited Edition Predator X-2. Over the past few months, Vology Corporation has been working on several top-secret projects. Rumors began to surface in late January that Vology would be launching a new go to market strategy, and in February the company officially announced the launch of the Vology Dealership Program.

According to inside sources, Vology's top-secret efforts did not end with the launch of the Vology Dealership Program, and the just released Limited Edition Predator X-2 Gaming Laptop is the latest move by the custom high-performance computer company. The Limited Edition Predator X-2 is designed to be the fastest and most powerful mobile gaming solution in the world. See for yourself at <http://www.vology.com>.

It is no secret that Vology's technology is headed up by the 'Mad Scientist' James Stubbs, the company's Director of Product Development. Rumor has it that he is up to his usual routine of breaking the known limits of gaming technologies. Mr. Stubbs did make himself available for an interview, but the majority of the products testing and design remains locked in the company's product vault. We were able to pry a comment on the recent developments from him. In very simple terms, Mr. Stubbs clearly stated "...extreme mobile gamers are in for a huge surprise."

The recent developments at Vology have many industry insiders asking the question, "What is next?". When we interviewed Vology's leadership team we were able to speak with Paul Brisson, Vology's President and one of founders of the company. Mr. Brisson shed some light on where Vology is headed when he commented on the vision behind the just released Limited Edition Predator X-2. "When we looked at what was available in the market, we were highly disappointed by the lack of power and performance for mobile gaming. The Limited Edition Predator X-2 is designed to finally satisfy the needs of mobile gamers and set a new standard for mobile gaming capability. This Limited Edition is the first in an entire line of extreme performance laptops which will allow gamers to break the shackles of their towers. Gaming is not meant to be a desktop sport!" Vology is clearly moving into the high-performance computer market at full speed.
