This desire to improve ones body shape continues to increase in numbers opting for liposuction. The combination of an obesity epidemic and the 21st century idealism of body perfection could well be the reason behind the boom surgeons have said.

It is stressed however that liposuction is not a treatment for obesity or a quick fix for weight loss. Douglas McGeorge the President of Baaps has warned, liposuction is not a quick fix for the obese.

Who is a suitable candidate for liposuction?

Liposuction is extremely effective at removing unwanted fatty deposits. Ideally suited to someone who exercises and eats healthily but cannot remove stubborn areas of fat. If someone is very overweight it is advised they lose some weight before liposuction can be performed.

Liposuction, is an ideal body contouring solution for patients near or already at their ideal weight.

Cosmetic Surgery can have a very positive psychological impact and improve quality of life.
