

Atlanta Roofer “iRoof” Selected as GAF-Elk Certified Roofing Installer

Local roofer presented with award given to small fraction of contractors.

May 5, 2008 - PRLog -- Atlanta, GA – iRoof, a local Atlanta roofing contractor (<http://www.i-roof.com>), joined the ranks of a small fraternity of roofing contractors nationwide (estimated to be less than 6%) as it was recently awarded GAF’s prestigious Certified Roofing Installer designation. GAF-Elk, the nation largest roofing manufacturer, selected iRoof because of the local company’s volume and commitment to both their customers and GAF.

“To say that we’re honored to be chosen as a GAF Certified Contractor is an understatement”, says Giovanni Rueda, iRoof’s owner. “We realize the importance of the certification and look forward to extending GAF-Elk’s high quality standards to our customers. We look forward to providing a high level of quality for years to come!”

iRoof’s client base has already taken notice of their commitment to quality, which is reflected through the company’s rapid growth. The company has several crews, a new warehouse and will soon be presenting a new, interactive website. With the certification, iRoof receives the exclusive rights to market and install GAF-Elk products. The company's website is <http://www.i-roof.com>.
