Dated: May 10, 2008

Letterwhiz.com is your free letter-template resource for every situation – business, love, education, personal matters and your career. For a limited time, Letterwhiz.com is offering free customized letter templates.

Letterwhiz.com (<http://www.letterwhiz.com>) has been the internet's preeminent resource for free letter templates for over three and a half years. In order to better serve its users, Letterwhiz.com is now offering customized letter templates at no charge for a limited time.

"We're always trying to better serve our users," says Chief Information Officer Jasen Maminski. "People are tired of companies trying to dictate their needs through disruptive technology and content solutions. So we thought, 'Why not just let our users tell us what they need?'"

Most people don't have time or patience to write everyday letters, and Letterwhiz.com offers free templates that anyone can use spanning a variety of subjects -- business, love, education, careers and personal matters.

"With our new program, you can tell us what you need, and we'll deliver," Maminski says. "Any registered member is able to make requests, and the template will be posted on the site for anyone to use."

About Letterwhiz.com's Free Customized Templates Program

- Only members (see <http://www.letterwhiz.com/join.php>) may request free letter templates. Membership is free. Use the registration link on the front page of the site to sign up.
- Members may send as many requests as they like, but keep in mind that the letters are written by actual human beings, and that human beings only have so much time in their day for writing letters. Letters are not necessarily produced in the order that requests are received.
- Letterwhiz.com will only create letters that it feels are suitable for its audience. Ask yourself, "Could a reasonable human being find this letter useful?" If the answer is yes, odds are it will be created for you.
- Letterwhiz.com cannot guarantee turnaround times for letters.
- Letterwhiz.com reserves the right to end the free letter template program at any time, even before all requests are granted. Our lawyer told us to put this line in here.
