

SunPass Holder features Florida Marlins and Tampa Bay Devil Ray Logos

Highway Image is proud to introduce its Major League Baseball transponder Holder. The Holder Covers the Ugly White Spot on your windshield with your favorite team's logo. The product works with EZPass, SunPass, FastLane, I-Pass and others.

May 19, 2008 - PRLog -- The gentlemen at Highway Image decided years ago that there was a much better way to display their SunPass transponders in the windshields of their cars. It was just a matter of getting the right images to cover up all those little pesky white spots in the middle of their car's windshield. The addition of Major League Baseball to Highway Image's line-up has put them on the road to victory in their quest to cover as many electronic tolling transponders as possible.

To buy your favorite Major League Baseball Team from Florida's SunPass Holder today go directly to the Major League Baseball page on Highway Image's website at <http://www.highwayimage.com/baseball.htm>. From Jacksonville to Miami fans can show a little team spirit as they drive around the state. Put your team pride right up front where it belongs instead of on your bumper!

Highway Image expects the MLB line-up to be a Home Run as it expands the number and types of images that they offer. If you'd like to peruse their entire selection go to their home page at <http://www.highwayimage.com>.

The holder sticks onto the inside of your car's windshield exposing your team's image to everyone outside the car. The transponder itself sticks to the back of the holder with Velcro strips and the transponder reads right through it. Yes, it has been tested and works fine! Get yours today and start showing a little pride while you drive and cover-up that ugly white spot at the same time.

From their humble beginnings Highway Image has gone from offering just the American Flag, which continues to be the number one seller, to offering college logos, astrological signs, non-profit organizations additional patriotic symbols and some fun and nonsensical images. From flags, to Autism Speaks to Rutgers University to Mom's Taxi, Highway Image continues to expand the choices that it offers.

Expect to see the Peanuts gang with Charlie Brown and Snoopy to be arriving shortly. The National Football League logos should follow shortly also.

Highway Image is always interested in suggestions and if you have one please don't hesitate to write them at info@highwayimage.com.
