Dated: May 27, 2008

Performance Pathways, a trusted provider of integrated curriculum mapping and assessment tools, announces the release of its Schools Interoperability Framework (SIF) Agent for its Performance Tracker software. The agent is SIF 2.0 certified.

Mechanicsburg, PA -- Performance Pathways, Inc., a trusted provider of integrated curriculum mapping and assessment tools, announced the release of its Schools Interoperability Framework (SIF) Agent for its Performance Tracker software.

Performance Pathways' SIF Agent will allow multiple platforms and diverse software programs to seamlessly communicate with one another. The result is measurable cost and time savings to school districts with the elimination of redundant data entry and easier integration of programs. This release of the Performance Tracker SIF Agent is SIF 2.0 certified.

"Our vision has always been to help schools streamline operations through more efficient data and information management. Becoming SIF certified is a logical extension of this vision and will ensure that our customers not only gain efficiency, but also a higher level of data integrity," said Jeff Colosimo, President and CEO of Performance Pathways.

To provide the SIF Agent, Performance Pathways partnered with Integrity Technology Solutions, a leading provider of SIF services.

"We are excited to work with Integrity Technology Solutions because of their commitment to quality implementation and emphasis on relationship building," Colosimo said.

In addition to providing the SIF agent development, Integrity Technology Solutions will be working closely with Performance Pathways to support its customers with SIF specific implementation, configuration, and deployment solutions.

"By partnering with Performance Pathways, we are excited to bring to the K-12 marketplace quality integration solutions for school district clients," said Dave Moravec, National Business Development Manager at Integrity.
