OFFICE-KIT.COM today announced the release of Pop-up Excel Calendar 1.3.3. Pop-up Excel Calendar is an Excel COM add-in program that helps you easily enter date values into Excel files, without caring about the format of the dates, such as dd/mm/yy or mm/dd/yy, slashes or dashes or dots, etc.

Below are some of the most significant Pop-up Excel Calendar features:

- Pop-up Excel Calendar works under all major versions of Microsoft Windows, including Windows 2000/XP/2003, Windows Vista.
- Pop-up Excel Calendar supports all major versions of Microsoft Office/Excel, including Office/Excel 2000/XP/2003/2007.
- All non-normal views of Excel templates/workbooks are supported, such as Page Break Preview in Excel 2003 and Page Layout in Excel 2007, as well as Split view and Frozen view.
- Fully controllable auto-activation mode. The calendar can be activated if a cell is formatted as date, is filled with a date-like value, is underneath a cell with a date value or format in it, and/or is underneath a cell that has some form of the word "date" in it.
- Manual activation mode is also supported for non-date cells.
- Custom date formats allow you to define your own valid/invalid date formats, even if they are not supported by Excel itself.

Availability

Pop-up Excel Calendar runs under Windows 2000/XP/2003/Vista and costs $19.5 (USD) for a single-user license. Registered customers are entitled to unlimited functionality, free minor updates and lifetime technical support.

The 30-day fully functional evaluation version of the program can be downloaded for free at
