We are your favorite online resource for Los Angeles based service companies. Home repairs, auto repairs, appliance repairs, landscaping, handymen, and more... we have a wide array of quality repair companies for you to choose from.

Los Angeles residents are frustrated with being ripped off when hiring a handyman or repair service out of a phone book or other free service directories. With more and more repair services realizing the myth of fixing one thing and breaking another for more business, a group of fed up Angelinos collaborated and created LARepairfinder.com, an internet search engine developed solely for the purpose of finding quality repair services in the Los Angeles area. <http://LARepairfinder.com/>

According to Jason Fallon, LARepairfinder's Operation Manager, "The search directory has already benefited multitudes of people who seek a reliable and trustworthy repair company. It's wonderful having a website dedicated only to that specific niche," Fallon says. "It's gratifying to see our members leaving reviews about their service experience and leaving a road map for other consumers to make a more informed decision on who they spend their money with. We look forward to our continuous growth and plan to become the #1 resource on the web for finding top notch Los Angeles based service companies."

With growing popularity, the newly debuted website has 244 categories and more than 500 listings. "They have this really great feature," says a frequent user of the website, "I hit a button that sends quote requests to all of the companies I chose in a desired category, instead of having to sort through them one by one myself; it saves me tons of time."

LARepairfinder.com was founded in November of 2007 and is devoted to helping residents of Los Angeles save time and money when searching for a repair company. This free site offers a plethora of categories to search through for almost any repair need, and does not give consumers the daunting task of searching through scattered results from a standard search engine.

About LARepairfinder: We are your favorite online resource for Los Angeles based service companies. Finding a quality repair company can turn into a real headache, so we have done the work for you.

LA Repairfinder is for you if...

You have no clue how to repair something but need it working ASAP!

Your car muffler sounds like a bike with a can stuck on its wheel.

Your toilet is overflowed and the smell is unbearable.

You haven't done spring cleaning in 5 years and it's time!

Your grass is taller than you.

Your 80's leather jacket was torn in a club and you can't live without it.

Your computer has a virus that's taunting you.

Your house is begging to be remodeled.

You can't touch your pool water without getting a plague.

The kids and dog use the carpet as their personal garbage can.
