By Integrity Way

Dated: Jun 06, 2008

Integrity Way has once again gone above the status qoute and is now forming a business relationship with Lifeskills Management, LLC who will be supporting Integrity Way's efforts by helping Integrity Way's residents learn day to day lifeskills.

A business relationship has started to form between Life Skills Management, LLC and Integrity Way. Life Skills is an organization that is licensed through the Department of Family and Children and their primary purpose is case management and the development of life skills in people who have had issues with drug and alcohol abuse. Integrity Way is a successful sober living community that currently has fourteen homes in three locations and is growing by leaps and bounds. Together, people are going to have a safe place to recover from drugs and alcohol, new life skills and a better opportunity to transition back into society.

"The reason for the relationship is simple, our residents have been using drugs and alcohol for so long that many of them have learned how to read a bus schedule, learned how to dress for an interview nor learned the proper interviewing skills such as eye contact. This move on our part in designed really to reduce relapse, empower our residents, and promote teamwork," says CEO of Integrity Way Matthew Brindisi

The new program is coming soon and can be found on Integrity Way's website. <http://www.integritywayflorida.com>
