

Online Property Staging Courses: Property Staging Consultants® leads the way

By Property Staging Consultants

Dated: Jun 06, 2008

Property Staging Consultants has launched a comprehensive new online course, "Property Image Consultants (PIC)" designed for real estate professionals who may be unable to attend a course in person.

Online Property Staging Courses: Property Staging Consultants® leads the way

Real estate professionals looking for a convenient, effective way to increase their income should look no further. Property Staging Consultants has launched a comprehensive new online course, "Property Image Consultants (PIC)" designed for real estate professionals who may be unable to attend a course in person. The online course will train real estate professionals how to effectively prepare properties for sale through consulting and staging.

With more than 23 years experience in the staging and real estate industry, the expertise provided by Property Staging Consultants truly sets a new standard for real estate staging. An accredited company with a national reputation, Property Staging Consultants has educated thousands of real estate professionals on industry-leading quality staging and imaging techniques.

Extensive research indicates that staged homes sell more quickly than un-staged homes, and often for greater prices. PIC Online Course participants are equipped to increase their inventories and earning potential, while helping their clients achieve a greater financial return.

Those interested in learning more about Property Staging, the online course, or other courses offered by Property Staging Consultants, should visit www.propertystagingconsultants.com. Information is also available by contacting Stephanie Rhodes, the company's corporate manager and marketing executive at 620-545-8507 or Stephanie@propertystagingconsultants.com.

About Property Staging Consultants

Property Staging Consultants is a professional organization specializing in the training of real estate professionals and other interested individuals in the art of "Home Staging." An integral part of the overall mission is PSC®'s commitment to helping every student, as well as each PSC® employee, reach their full creative and business potential.

###

Property Staging Consultants is a professional organization specializing in the training of real estate professionals and other interested individuals in the art of "Home Staging." An integral part of the overall mission is PSC®'s commitment to helping every student, as well as each PSC® employee, reach their full creative and business potential.

Category	Home staging
Tags	property staging, home staging, staged homes, online training, Real Estate, new courses
Email	Click to email author
Country	United States