ROCHESTER, NY – Renaissance EXECUTIVE FORUMS, Inc., the leader in innovative approaches to help Chief Executives improve performance in their businesses, has announced that Bruce Peters, a long-time resident of Pittsford, NY and a local business leader for many years, has recently purchased the Rochester, Buffalo and Syracuse franchise units. Mr. Peters will be President / Owner of this organization which works exclusively with CEOs, presidents, owners and executives of small to medium-sized businesses and major corporations in the Upstate New York region. The Executive Forums program will be offered through Peters' Pittsford-based consulting firm, CABHQ, LLC, that provides strategic business solutions and facilitation services such as customer advisory boards, peer advisory boards, and CEO leadership training in a peer-to-peer learning environment.

“The franchise will provide us with significant contacts and relationship building opportunities in 40 additional markets throughout the country,” said Mr. Peters. “I was initially attracted to Renaissance EXECUTIVE FORUMS’ content and the level of sophistication of the tools and technology available to help CEOs run their businesses. I perceive Renaissance EXECUTIVE FORUMS at the highest level in the industry.”

Mr. Peters will bring together, as members of peer groups, top executives from similarly-sized but non-competing companies who will meet on a regularly scheduled basis to share ideas and concepts that help meet the challenges of successfully running a business. This service that Mr. Peters will make available through his affiliation with Renaissance EXECUTIVE FORUMS has received recognition in the recent past on both a national and international level as one of the most effective activities a Chief Executive can engage in to move his or her organization forward.
