Dager, an authorized Duct Tape Marketing Coach is well versed in these principles. “SCORE is a resource for small business owners who are just starting and want to get some help from an often retired, business owner or executive. And their services are,” says Dager. Not only am I going to discuss Duct Tape Marketing with the attendees but the workshop will include: Legal, Accounting, Insurance & Finance Information.

Business901 has delivered presentations to other SCORE chapters and has hosted the Fort Wayne Chapter on his Connecting Your Passion Public Access show recently. The history between Duct Tape Marketing and SCORE goes deeper than that with John Jantsch the author and founder of Duct Tape Marketing, who visited with Ken Yancey, CEO of SCORE for an episode of the Duct Tape Marketing podcast.

Dager also added: “SCORE is a great resource for Small Business. It is a very easy way to obtain a mentor and if you are starting a business or have a small business that you would appreciate having a sounding board, I encourage you to contact them. Just simply, a great resource that is under-utilized in my opinion. Should not every business have a SCORE Counselor?”

SCORE “Counselors to America’s Small Business” is a nonprofit association dedicated to entrepreneur education and the formation, growth and success of small business nationwide. The thing that many small business owners may not know however is that you can find a local chapter and work with a local counselor or you can get matched up to a counselor, nationwide, that may have the exact experience you are looking for. The first step is to locate a local chapter and then dig in and find out all the ways they can help you start and grow your business.

The Duct Tape Marketing system allows you to create and build your very own marketing system complimented by a coaching system that has proven effective with small businesses for over 20 years. The system is perfect for those who already own a business, but want to make it soar. This system will help build the perfect business establishing a proven marketing system to their growing company. “Why reinvent the wheel? Take a proven process, a trained coach and run with it.”

The Duct Tape Marketing Coaching community is second to none when it comes to vast array of marketing coaches. Their uniqueness is that they actually work with you, installing and implement a repeatable process. It is not about the plan, it’s about the process that you leave behind, says Dager. Dager also comments: “Most Duct Tape Coaches become highly specialized. We realize the value in having a specific product or market. We do not try to be everything to everyone. It is simple impossible to accomplish what we do in such a short period if we don’t.”
