

Making The Gun Personal Again.

Don't own an ugly gun. Beautify your gun and add value at the same time with a custom engraving or carving on your gun stock.

Aug. 24, 2008 - PRLog -- The embellishing of guns is not a new art. In fact, the decorating of weapons is as old as weapons themselves. In the past a customized gun, knife or any weapon has signified a person as a warrior, a veteran, skilled hunter or even showed respect for the game the user hunted. Today it is no different. We like to set ourselves APART from everyone else; we want to be distinct.

At Jeff Starr Studio, he does just that. Jeff is a skilled artisan and craftsman, and he uses his talents to create beautiful embossed carvings in wood, bone, metal and antler (as well as other media?). His median of choice is hardwoods, specifically gun stocks. When you visit his studio in person or online, it won't be long before you will start to envision Jeff working on a personalized etching on your weapon of choice. The detail and precision he can accomplish is attributed to the high speed micro engraver he uses. It is similar to the drill we vividly recall hearing at the local dentist office. This engraver is considered high speed / low torque. This enables Jeff to engrave in just about any material (see website for a more comprehensive list).

Have you ever wanted to pay tribute to that monster elk you tagged last season? Jeff can help you do that. Have you been hunting for some time now and want to separate your rifle from your buddies? He can give your rifle or shotgun a theme to make it stand out and your buddies will never mistake your weapon for theirs again. What about that old shotgun your grandfather gave you? That can be miraculously refurbished and ornamented into a valuable work of art you will be proud to hang above the mantle (fireplace?).

Whatever the design or weapon, rest assured that when Jeff is finished with your weapon, you will have an heirloom that will be sought after for generations. Jeff takes pride in the workmanship he offers and his attention to the little details that may go unnoticed at first glance. "I love to watch the owners' reaction as I show them the finished product for the first time. I am rewarded by the enthusiasm and awe that they can't hide as they marvel at their new prized possession. That's why I do what I do". There is no doubt that a weapon engraved on personally by Jeff Starr Studio, will not only turn heads, but will increase in value and admiration. You can contact Jeff and visit his online studio at <http://www.jeffstarrstudio.com> . He will be happy to hear from you.
