

Spotlight on SA minerals

By IIR Conferences Australia

Dated: Aug 25, 2008

With around $13 billion worth of minerals and energy projects at various stages of development, South Australia offers major opportunities for investment in services.

With around $13 billion worth of minerals and energy projects at various stages of development, including BHP Billiton's $7 billion Olympic Dam and OZ Minerals' $775 million Prominent Hill expansions, South Australia offers major opportunities for investment in services.

Insights into what's unfolding will be provided at the Mining South Australia conference in Whyalla on 2-4 December. The conference will be held at the Middleback Theatre, to cope with bigger numbers following last year's inaugural event that packed in 200 minerals industry representatives from around Australia.
