Recently, the Publishers of the Hair Transplant Network attended the 16th annual ISHRS scientific meeting held in Montreal from September 3rd to September 7th, 2008 and bring to you the highlights on what's new in hair restoration.

To learn what's new in hair restoration, there is nothing like attending a scientific meeting of leading physicians discussing how to improve viable hair loss solutions.

Recently, the Publishers of the Hair Transplant Network attended the 16th annual ISHRS scientific meeting held in Montreal from September 3rd to September 7th, 2008 and bring to you the highlights on what's new in hair restoration.

The primary mission of the ISHRS (International Society of Hair Restoration Surgery) is to educate physicians in advancing techniques and technologies in hair restoration. The ISHRS is by far the most prominent hair restoration professional organization in the world and the host of the five day annual scientific meeting. The attention to detail at these meetings is always impressive and hair transplant surgeons who regularly attend deserve to be commended for their dedication to continuing education.

Many of the physicians well recognized by patients online for achieving excellent results have also become well known and respected by their colleagues as leaders and teachers in the industry. Many leading physicians recommended by this community led or were a part of almost every discussion panel.

Though a great number of hot topics were discussed, the Publishers of the Hair Transplant Network present the highlights on "what's new in hair restoration" that may be of most interest to hair loss sufferers. To see what's new in hair restoration, read the highlights from the 2008 ISHRS scientific meeting in Montreal.
