Mustang has devised this system to monitor washroom servicing. We tailor-made it to suit our mutual needs and offer a virtually foolproof service. This system has now been tried and tested with great success, we officially launched in January 2008 and has delighted our clients to date:

Paul Downes managing director said "If you've got a multi-storey building with a number of cubicles, or unmanned toilets that you can't check personally, how do you know that every item has been serviced as you would wish? By using Mustang, you can be completely confident, because we use a unique barcode system to monitor every service we do, every item we install is bar-coded and our operators are equipped with PDA scanners. Once the operators have serviced each unit, replenished stock or emptied waste, they scan the barcodes.

The operator can't 'close the job' until all units on your premises have been serviced and scanned. At that point, the job is signed off and a signed message is automatically emailed to you, to confirm all your washrooms have been serviced. The data is also sent to our office at the same time so we can track all operator movements.

Our first priority is to listen to you and understand your specific needs. We will then customise our service so that you benefit from a bespoke solution which has been built around your business. The result is an efficient, flexible and cost effective solution to your washroom and hygiene needs.

We use eco-friendly products whenever possible to demonstrate commitment to a safer future."
