Dated: Oct 13, 2008

SeminarInformation.com, the largest, most comprehensive database of seminars on the Internet has just updated its listings making it easier than ever to find a seminar locally.

www.Seminarinformation.com (<http://www.seminarinformation.com>), the website of Seminar Information Service, Inc. (SIS), who since 1981 has been the recognized leader in the industry, has just been updated with new dates and locations for hundreds of seminars.

"We are constantly updating our huge database of seminars," says Catherine Bellizzi, President and co-founder of SIS. "We want our users to be able to make educated choices when it comes to their training needs. We try to offer them the most current information including thousands of dates and locations from hundreds of seminar sponsors. We've made our search user-friendly so it's easier to find just the right seminar that best meets your training needs." she adds.

SeminarInformation.com lists the training schedules of hundreds of seminar sponsors including dates and locations from Skillpath, National Seminars, Fred Pryor, CareerTrack, Padgett Thompson, Lorman Education, Cross Country Education, American Trainco, Baker Communications, UCLA, the American Management Association, Cornell University and Society of Automated Engineers to name just a few.

Visitors to the website can search by date, location, seminar sponsor, key word, topic or title. Once they've found the seminar they can read a complete outline and enroll in the seminar online or toll free at 877-SEM-INFO (736-4636). Seminar experts are available to assist with registrations, answer questions and make suggestions.

Seminars for larger groups of attendees can be arranged at the location of your choice. Call and ask one of the customer service representatives for assistance in making the arrangements.
