

Applications to "Rising Stars In Photography" Now Being Accepted

By Tom Hubbard

Dated: Oct 23, 2008

The newest in the series of Hub's Photo Blogs, Rising Stars, is now accepting applications for inclusion in this non-commercial project for promoting the art and careers of today's most promising and emerging photographic artists.

Hub's Rising Stars of Photography project will launch in early November to showcase the talents of emerging photographic artists. As a companion site to Hub's Visionary Photographers, this unique project serves as a central source for viewing the art of tomorrow's photographic luminaries. Designed to provide a "jump start" showcase stage for aspiring photographers whose work is destined to blaze new trails in creative photography, Rising Stars is dedicated to fostering the art form and nurturing the enthusiasm inside tomorrow's Visionary Photographers.

Visitors to the Rising Star site -- from lovers of photography to photographic agents, from students to potential employers -- will experience the visions and youthful wisdom of artists who are pushing the boundaries of photography to make their voices heard in the photographic conversation.

Applications for Rising Star consideration are now being accepted. Each applicant's form, photographic samples and references are evaluated for entry into this prestigious family of future photography luminaries.

To apply for entry into Rising Stars send an email to the included address. You will be sent an overview of the project, a site address to preview the template being used to feature your creative talents and a formal application. There are no fees required at any time. No ads. No pop ups. No manufacturer endorsements. No kidding.

###

Non-commercial blogs designed to educate, support and inspire novice photographers. Information from basic DSLR camera operation, to digital imaging, to the thoughts and works of today's elite photographers, educators and authors as well as the emerging photographic talents of tomorrows luminaries.

Category	Arts, Photography, Publishing
Tags	aspiring photographers, rising stars of photography, new photographers, promoting photograh
Email	Click to email author
Phone	609-712-0936
State/Province	Washington
Zip	98685
Country	United States