If you're looking for somewhere different to celebrate Christmas 2008 then join the stylishly original crowd of live jazz lovers at Dover Street.

An exceptional London jazz bar and restaurant showcasing premier live acts and DJs playing everything from jazz and blues to soul and funk, Dover Street serves up a premium blend of musical treats and gourmet delights. This Christmas, the West End venue has unveiled a sublime new menu and secured an all-star line up, playing live throughout November and December.

Each year, thousands of revellers enter the London jazz bar to dance away their winter blues and immerse themselves in Christmas spirit. Winning the 2005 'Visit London Gold Award for Live Entertainment' and meanwhile raising nearly four hundred thousand pounds for 'Capital Radio Help a London Child', celebrating Christmas with Dover Street means becoming a part of somewhere that cares as much about the world as it does about the quality of its entertainment.

Centrally located in the heart of London's theatre district, Dover Street's seasonal menu is an ideal pre or post theatre treat as well as being a destination in itself for live music fans.

The uniquely understated and distinctly delicious Christmas menu tantalises the taste buds with a choice of salmon, goat's cheese or Parma ham dish. Then accompanied by fabulous acts carefully picked from the best on London's jazz scene, choose from a main course selection boasting two tempting vegetarian choices along with a perfectly prepared salmon dish and of course the traditional feast of turkey with all the trimmings. The dessert menu will not disappoint either. Just be certain to ensure your meal goes down smoothly with a glass of wine, champagne or spirits from Dover Street's extensive wine list, all serenaded by the soulful sounds of live Jazz.

Dover Street's Christmas lunch menu is priced at £29.95. Christmas dinner is priced at £49.95 a head.
