

Ian Thomas and Tom Killion Debate Scheduled for Cheyney University

Cheyney University NAACP college chapter, in cooperation with the CU College Republicans and Young Democrats organized a debate for area incumbent, Tom Killion, and candidate, Ian Thomas.

Oct. 28, 2008 - PRLog -- The Cheyney University of Pennsylvania college chapter of the NAACP, in cooperation with the Cheyney University College Republicans and Young Democrats has organized a debate for area incumbent, Tom Killion, and candidate, Ian Thomas. According to Christopher Carter, political action chair of the Cheyney University of Pennsylvania chapter, "Students are interested in understanding the positions of the candidates of the 168th Legislative District regarding local legislation and how decisions made at the local level will affect the future of the University."

The Debate will be held on Thursday, October 30, from 7:00 to 8:30 PM in the auditorium of Marcus Foster Student Union Building (2nd floor) on the campus of Cheyney University of Pennsylvania. This event is open to the general public and the hope is that concerned voters from Delaware and Chester Counties will attend and interact with the candidates on their issues of concern.

Khalid Long, President of the Cheyney University Campus Chapter and a Theater Arts major, expressed the general atmosphere on campus concerning this event. "Our student body will continue to be engaged in the local politics that are intricate to the survival of this campus. We hope to see much of our student body here to ask questions."

Visitor parking at Cheyney University is available in the Marcus Foster parking lot adjacent the Student Union building. Marcus Foster is easily accessible from this parking lot.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, as the world's oldest civil rights organization, has a commitment to the political involvement of all citizens. The NAACP is a multicultural, multi-ethnic and non-partisan organization.
