

Facebook Proves To Be Advantageous To Patients And Health Conscious People!

By Robert Mike Falco

Dated: Oct 29, 2008

Today, social networking is open for everyone, from business men to high school students, all are there on a single network. There are lots of applications available on Facebook which you can find according to your interest.

Today, social networking is open for everyone, from business men to high school students, all are there on a single network. There are lots of applications available on Facebook which you can find according to your interest.

Facebook applications for patient are a new area to start working on. People are sensitive and hesitant to discuss on social networks with friends and social group. Patients often try to find what social networks are best at — getting connected with a person who doesn't know people like them or someone else to relate. Social networks can play a vital role in helping patients who feel lonely in their struggles to be healthy or those who stay at homes often because of their disabilities.

Now, what new is coming to Facebook? Facebookster, one of the largest facebook application developers, is working on some thing new, an application that can help patient in a better way. The biggest challenge that we are facing is that to find a reliable source of information for helping the users in real. Because the most health check advices come from other users or from uncertified sources on Internet, mostly physicians are concerned with the quality of information.

CALORIE METER

This "CALORIE METER" can calculate the calories burned by a person on running a specified distance. Moreover, you can discuss and share your experiences and problems and we will make reliable sources available for the patient on various issues.

DOC ONLINE

Another application is DOC ONLINE on where you can find online doctors and discuss several health issues with them. The idea of Doc Online is create a forum where a patient can easily and without any hesitation discuss his/her issues pertaining to any course of health. Also, another important aspect of Doc Online would be news updates and the top notch and widely used health supplements and drugs.

<http://facebookster.com/blog/2008/10/27/facebook-proves-to-be-advantageous-to-patients-and-health-conscious-people/>

###

Facebookster has been functional in the market for years providing Facebook application developments solutions and strategies to our clients, and we've done good. Today, Facebookster stands as the only entity that is able to provide you with thriving applications because it is well familiar with the DNA of Facebook.

Category	Technology
Tags	facebook, application, Health, Technology, Business, Small Business, apps, facebook developer
Email	Click to email author
Phone	18007840826

Address 39001 Fremont Blvd
New York
City/Town New York
State/Province New York
Zip 10027
Country United States