Louisville, Colo. — Citron WorkSpaces, Colorado's environmentally focused office furniture resource partner, recently completed the design and installation of an innovative work environment for Access National Mortgage's new Diamond Hill office space in Denver. Citron designers created private offices and modular workstations for the 10,000 square-foot space using cost-effective new furniture and panel systems.

The Citron team created an open plan "workstations" area with good acoustic privacy supplemented by a sound masking system to eliminate recognizable voice distraction. The workstations were manufactured by Teknion and are GREENGUARD certified. The plan features 80" high walls with upper "clerestory" glass to maximize flow of outside light throughout the space. Sliding doors provide additional privacy and minimize outside distractions.

Lenae Vandegrift, Sales Operations Manager for Access National Mortgage, said of the Citron WorkSpaces team, "From the very beginning, we really loved the sales team and the development team assigned to us. They were great — very patient, very thorough, and they didn't mind educating us and answering multiple questions. They were easy to work with from day one." She noted that when last-minute space changes were required, Citron staff ensured that all details were handled quickly and effortlessly.

At Access National Mortgage, the new office spaces incorporate curvilinear, wrap-around "cockpit"-style desks for convenience and ergonomic comfort. Meanwhile, floating, desk-mounted overhead storage allows natural light from exterior windows to reach the entire interior work area.

"We went to the Citron showroom to pick furniture and finishes" said Vandegrift. "They gave us multiple quotes, and showed that they really understood what we wanted. The different options they provided on different product lines helped us get the best quality within our budget, and that was really cool — we had low, middle and higher priced options to choose from."

Citron President Kathey Pear said of the project, "It's always exciting for us to create an entirely new workspace for companies. By improving the work environment with GREENGUARD-certified furniture, we provide greater comfort, enhanced privacy, and efficient use of space. We find that employees are happier and more productive — so it's a valuable benefit for everyone involved."

And, as Vandegrift notes, Citron's ongoing service policy is critical for growing businesses like hers. "It's great to have a one-stop shop for everything — including maintenance and anything we want to add going forward."

About Citron WorkSpaces
