

imView Releases Online Search Capture Functionality

By imView

Dated: Nov 06, 2008

In an ongoing effort to provide value added services to our customers, we have released functionality that enables parents to capture and view all search phrases their children use while online.

Glen Rock, NJ – imView, www.imview.com is proud to announce, after several months of development the release of their online search capture functionality. With this new capability, parents are now able to view all of the search terms their children are using on all major search engines such as Google, Yahoo, MSN, Ask, and many others.

Jerry Salvi, CEO states: “This is the next significant step in imView’s product evolution. Most parent control and/or computer monitoring applications only give parents the ability to view the history of websites visited. As we are all aware of, this can be quite tedious. With this newest addition to our product set, parents can get a quick view of all the search terms that their children are using. We believe this to be a significant step forward in bringing better awareness to concerned parents.”

About imView

imView is the next significant step in trying to meet the needs of parents by providing them with a comprehensive view of what their children are doing online.

With imView’s Family Online Safety Program, parents now have the ability to monitor their children’s online activity from anywhere in the world!

The imView service is easily downloaded to your child’s PC, where it will capture all their computer activity. However, none of the collected information is stored on the local computer. All collected information is uploaded to our secure servers to allow parents to conveniently view this information from anywhere they have an internet connection!
