Dated: Nov 15, 2008

Text messaging is the communication medium of choice of virtually every teen with a mobile device. Short Message Service (SMS) has changed the way people work and play. TextAFlirt.com introduces a playful way to flirt with your friends from your PC.

Freetext.biz, the world's most popular free text messaging service, today announced it has added a new franchise to its fold. TextAFlirt.com, recently in beta, has been launched to great reviews from visitors that want to flirt with their friends. TextAFlirt.com has added a series of flirts suggested by its visitors as well as original content. TextAFlirt.com lets visitors select from a list of predefined flirts to send free via text message to a broad range of users of text messaging services around the world.

In recent years, Short Messaging Services (SMS) has become a phenomenon especially among young people. SMS allows for short text messages to be sent from one mobile device to another mobile device or more easily from a free website to a SMS enabled device.

SMS text messaging is the most widely used data application on the planet, with 2.4 billion active users, or 74% of all mobile phone subscribers sending and receiving text messages on their phones. Text messages cannot exceed 160 characters including spaces. Some wireless devices have full keyboards for faster texting whereas others require numbers to be tapped multiple times to achieve a particular letter. Most teens quickly master the cumbersome keyboards and adapt quickly to rapid texting. SMS is popular among teens to socialize, send jokes, flirts and reminders.

TextAFlirt.com has recently undergone a major server upgrade and added support for the new cell phone providers internationally. TextAFlirt.com brings playful free flirting to everyone looking for a clever message to send. Anyone can now flirt free and confidently through SMS text messages.
