New Audio Pronunciation takes full advantage of the Internet by allowing parents the chance to listen to baby names as they are meant to be heard. Parents can listen to the pronunciation of baby names with a click of their mouse.

BabyNameGuide.com now offers Audio Pronunciations for Baby Names. This new audio pronunciation feature was added to some of the Baby Name Guide Categories this Fall 2008. Baby Name Guide Categories will be updated with this new technology over the next couple years (over 30 categories in all).

Expecting parents have the chance to listen to the pronunciation of baby names with a click of their mouse. They have the chance to hear how the baby names are meant to be heard without having to guess the pronunciation. This new tool takes full advantage of the Internet and gives parents a better understanding of origins and show how origins can change the pronunciation of certain baby names.

Some key features include – the ability to compare baby name pronunciations side by side with streaming audio, so there is no need to wait for the audio file to load. There is also no external player to download, since the audio file is self-contained in its own player. You can open multiple players with ease to compare one baby name to another. Each file is sampled at 128 bit, so the quality is outstanding. A professional voice-over talent was brought in to give the pronunciations a flawless finish.

The player itself gives the parents the ability to pause, stop and replay each baby name's pronunciation. Visitors can open and close players with a snap and scroll down the screen without losing the audio player. The player itself is small and compact. There's no pop-up window to close or bulky external audio player to get in your way. You can also open multiple players on each page to compare baby names.

In the next few months we will be adding an additional 10 Baby Name Guide Categories with the audio pronunciation player. Please give this new feature a test drive now by visiting BabyNameGuide.com. Look for the green speaker symbol at the right of each category.
