When timeshare owners need cash for their units, the choice is clear Realty Trade.

Timeshare owners across the world are concerned about the global economic crisis and the first thing that people are doing is looking to liquidate unnecessary luxuries, such as vacation properties.

Sky rocketing maintenance fees and taxes add to the already pricey additional funds that are spent every year to keep these resorts up to date and in perfect dream-vacation conditions.

According to Director of Marketing Operations of RealtyTrade.com Tim Harrison, it is crucial to market timeshare properties to the correct niche market. In poor economic conditions, timeshare owners can liquidate their property for cash because there are always investors looking to pick up good deals on 5-star vacation properties.

Realty Trade is a marketing and advertising firm that uses cutting edge internet technologies to gain a competitive advantage in a niche market, based out of Orlando, FL.
