

Celebrities Place Personal Ads Seeking Ms. Right

By Perfect Search

Dated: Nov 19, 2008

Celebrities are posting full page personal ads to find their perfect wife. No longer wishing to waste time and wanting to be proactive, high earning celebrities are using matchmakers to place newspaper ads to find their soul mate.

Melinda Maximova, matchmaker with Perfect Search Inc., is placing ads all over the San Francisco Bay Area in hopes of finding a perfect wife for one of her celebrity clients. These personal ads for the stars are attracting the attention of thousands of women wishing to be matched with the rich and famous. "Money is not an object for these men," Explains Maximova. "They have been superstars in their careers and know they deserve the best. They want to be proactive about finding their perfect woman and can afford to take out large ads to find potential candidates for me to screen."

Comedian, Yakov Smirnoff is one of the clients wishing to be matched. His ad reads as follows:

"My client is an international entertainer who began his career in comedy with the likes of Billy Crystal, Jerry Seinfeld, and Robin Williams. He rose to be one of the Nation's most entertaining and prolific comedians. He has starred in several movies, had a Broadway show for six months, was a speech writer for a United States president, wrote several books, created a national, memorial mural and now performs in his own 2000 seat theater.

He is handsome with sparkling, blue eyes and a contagious smile. He's fit, active and lives a healthy lifestyle. As a professor and philosopher he has done a lot of research on the topic of love and laughter. His priority is to understand what makes people happy and his work is his passion and purpose. He is looking for his soul mate.

If you are between the ages of 30 and 40, fit, attractive and would like to start a family, please contact Perfect Search for a free in person interview."
