When you've been together for more than two decades as a married couple, it's time to celebrate your successful relationship in a big way. However, most people aren't sure how to celebrate their Silver Anniversary. Here are some ideas about what's appropriate and what might help make this milestone even more memorable for the two of you.

Ways to Celebrate: the

One important consideration is who throws the celebration. Before the 40th anniversary, the couple can either celebrate alone or throw their own party. That's the standard etiquette rule. Of course, you might have a relative or friend who wants to do the honors early and that's fine, too. Generally, just the two of you will be making the arrangements for your

The good news about that is you have more control over the events than you would if someone else was calling the shots. And don't forget that you'll also be in charge of determining the guest list and sending out those 25th wedding anniversary invitations, too.

Should We Have a Gold 25th Wedding Anniversary

Normally, gold is associated with your <http://www.announcements-shoppe.com/Anniversary-Invitations/50th-wedding-anniversary-party-invitations> but since it's your celebration you can make any changes you want. One of the easiest ways to make the switch is via the gifts the two of you exchange. Gold jewelry, for example, is an excellent gift. However, if you want to stick with silver there are plenty of beautiful choices available for watches, necklaces, rings, and more. Now if you do want to celebrate with a gold gift, consider adding a card that says "This is an advance on the next 25 great years together."

Other traditional silver gifts might include picture frames, flatware sets, or engraved items bearing the date of your wedding. If you have a party, most people will either go with the silver gifts or will choose something just as nice. Don't count on getting any gold bars or anything similar for your 25th.

Ideas for the 25th Wedding <http://www.cardsshoppe.com/anniversary-invitations/> Anniversary Invitations

Your first decision is whether to have a big event or to just have a private celebration. One of the factors to consider is whether or not you have young children. Because alone time can be a precious commodity, why not use your anniversary as an excuse to leave the little ones with grandma and grandpa while the two of you disappear for the weekend to a hotel where you can not only enjoy one another's undivided company but also be pampered in style. You can sit back in your room, order room service, and enjoy every minute of your <http://www.express-invitations.com/anniversary-invitations/> silver anniversary invitations in style.

Of course, you could also do a surprise celebration for each other. One of the nicest ideas is to pack a picnic meal including champagne, strawberries, and other delicacies then surprises your spouse as he or she is leaving work. The two of you can then drive to a secluded spot with a gorgeous view to watch the sunset and to have your own romantic, private picnic. There's also the option of throwing an amazing party and inviting everyone in your circle of friends and family members. The final choice on how to spend your <http://www.announcements-shoppe.com/Anniversary-Invitations-Announcements-Cards/productsList-15-1.htm> silver anniversary is entirely yours.
