

Cancer Survivor Writes Book to Help Expand Charity Organization

By Jairus House

Dated: Dec 01, 2008

Esther Gillie, one of many cancer survivors, has written down her story of cancer survival. With the proceeds from her book, Esther plans on expanding the reach of her charity - Jairus House.

Rochester, NY – Esther Gillie, one of many cancer survivors, founded Jairus House in 2007. Jairus House is a charity dedicated to helping people recover from the spiritual and emotional devastation of cancer and other catastrophic illnesses.

Esther has written down her story of cancer survival to share with others. Reflections And Ramblings – Diary of a Cancer Survivor (ISBN-13: 978-1440444722) chronicles her daily experiences after surviving cancer, and dealing with the aftermath left behind. With the proceeds from her book, Esther plans on expanding the reach of Jairus House to help those dealing with the devastation and life altering stress of diseases such as cancer.

The book takes you through a year of her life, struggles, and thoughts post-cancer. If you or someone you know either has cancer or has escaped the clutches of cancer, this book should give you a point of reference for dealing with the daily struggles as well as the daily good that can be expected. Or if you are just looking for stories of encouragement, strength, courage, hope, and humor to read during the holidays, Reflections and Ramblings will provide hours of enjoyable reading, and help fund a worthy cause.

Reflections And Ramblings – Diary of a Cancer Survivor (ISBN-13: 978-1440444722) can be purchased through several distribution channels including amazon.com, createspace.com, and lulu.com

For more information contact: Dan Gillie Phone: (919) 491-7385 or visit Esther's blog or Jairus House websites <http://estherscancerdiary.blogspot.com/> or <http://www.jairusHouse.org>

Category	Family, Health, Non Profit
Tags	cancer, survival, blog, diary, Family
Email	Click to email author
Country	United States