Dated: Dec 02, 2008

Organization Improves Rank according to Triangle Business Journal

Durham, N.C. – WorkSmart, premier provider of Information Technology services and solutions in North Carolina, announced today that they have been ranked seventh among IT networking companies in the Triangle area by the Triangle Business Journal. Previously ranked eighth in 2007, WorkSmart is pleased to have achieved growth in sales volume. Rankings are determined by networking revenues.

WorkSmart serves over 200 business, non-profit and government agency clients throughout thirteen states on the east coast. They were ranked 24th in the top 100 small businesses in North Carolina by Business Leader magazine in 2007, based on revenue growth, years in business, employee growth, business achievement and community involvement. The company has also been named to the INC 5000 list in 2007 and 2008, based on percentage growth in company net sales over a four-year period.

“We are proud to have achieved growth in a difficult economy in 2008”, said Ron Unger, WorkSmart CEO. “We are grateful for our clients’ confidence in our services and look forward to continued growth by assisting businesses and organizations to control IT risk and improve productivity.”
