Butterfly Productions is elated to announce that Baltimore's Fashion Week has extended the invitation to vendors to showcase, display, and even sell their products and merchandise along side this year's week long runway events.

Vendors will be placed in close proximity to the War Memorial Building, which is the home of Baltimore's Fashion Week. We have selectively titled this location as "The Fashion Village"

"When the decision was made to invite vendors, it was a refreshing addition to this event," stated Antoine Brown, Vice President.

Vendors will have the option of a daily or a weekly placement. Applications are being accepted now and space is awarded on a first come first serve basis.

More information is available on the website – www.baltimoresfashionweek.com.
