

Universal Vacations Announces New Video Tours for Gulfcoast Homes

By Gary Young

Dated: Feb 13, 2009

A new innovative way of viewing vacation homes via high quality film, giving the potential gues a true image of the vacation home prior to arrival

Universal Vacations

Are proud to present the latest state of the art method of viewing homes – we now have the ability to showcase our inventory of luxury accommodations on video format. By combining moving images, we can describe all the features of the home in detail, accompanied with background music that actually works with the individual style of the accomodation. What better way to get a feel for a vacation home or condominium, whether it be in Fort Myers – Sarasota/Bradenton or Miami our accommodations are all displayed on one superb display.

We have designed a web-site that is specific for the presentation of video tours of our inventory.

This is a very new site and we are constantly updating the site with our inventory. Currently we are adding our Fort Myers homes, with other areas to follow.

Lifestyle footage on all the areas Universal Vacations offers rental and management services will be added to the web-site over the next few weeks. We have offices in: Bradenton – Fort Myers – Cape Coral and coming shortly our new Miami office.

We have produced a corporate video, which gives a brief introduction to Universal Vacations presented by Jessica Stillwell for Gulfcoast Lifestyle. Gary Young, Universal Vacations president gives an insight into the companies history and the way forward for what is becoming a very popular type of vacationing experience as opposed to the Hotel and Motel option.

The video can be viewed by visiting Universal Vacations main website: <http://www.univacus.com>
