

Harlette Luxury Lingerie Launches International Couture Service

By Harlette Limited

Dated: Feb 19, 2009

Harlette luxury lingerie launches an international couture service to 12 cities around the world. Harlette has defined a new bench mark in luxury lingerie, for the luxury lingerie elite

Harlette Limited has launched a service totally tailored to elite luxury lingerie purveyors.

The creator of this unique service Naomi McGill B.IT, MBA has been featured on BBC Breakfast, London's Capital Radio and researched the luxury lingerie market for over four years including a posting in one of London's busiest high street luxury department stores, selling the most expensive set ever sold by the store.

During this time Naomi worked closely with A list celebrities, and billionaires and discovered that their needs really were not being catered too. A confidential, made to measure service using couture fabrics just was not available.

So Naomi set out to create such a service. Despite all the doom and gloom and luxury brand bashing, lingerie is still a strong seller as people stay home more and focus on fantasy rather than reality.

Fantasy, and opulence are Harlette's specialty with fashion forward bespoke pieces starting from £2000. Harlette Limited has a secret weapon that only top tier clients dare indulge themselves with.

Private consultations are only arranged by contacting the team at Harlette via the Harlette website. <http://www.harlette.com>.

The service is currently available in 12 cities around the world including Dubai, London, Paris, Moscow, Oslo, Milan, New York, Los Angeles, Mumbai, Shanghai, Tokyo and Sydney. The service can include other cities, if the client has a unique request or specific commission.
