Dated: Feb 26, 2009

SantexQ releases highly anticipated, upgraded version of its online project management tool with enhanced features, including file uploads, invoice generation and punch clock.

San Diego, CA -- SantexQ, a popular web based project management tool developed by a selected team of developers of the technology-centered business Santex Group, officially released a new version Monday, February 23rd, 2009. Affectionately referred to as "The Q" by its developers, the tool has already been established as an exceptionally useful project management application, and is now even more effective with over 20,000 active users.

In addition to the reliable time and task management capabilities the tool is known for, the new SantexQ includes essential project management features such as file uploads and document sharing, automatic invoice creation, enhanced reporting and a convenient punch clock.

All the new features are included in Premium accounts for a small flat fee of $9.95 per month. The company is still committed to providing the tool as a free product, thus a completely free Basic Account option is also available.

Along with technical upgrades and enhancements, a few subtle tweaks have also been added to allow for easier usability. Data is efficiently organized into collapsible menus, giving better visibility of essential information, while PDF report and invoice generation has never been easier.

"Back in 2006 when we decided to launch the first version of The Q, we knew the success or failure of the application was going to depend on how much we were willing to listen to people's feedback and constructive criticism," Juan Santiago, President and CEO of Santex Group, explains. "We are thrilled with the results of this new release thus far. The continued support from our users is key as we are already planning new more enhanced future releases throughout 2009 and 2010," he said.

In the short time that SantexQ has been released, the tool has already received a highly positive response from current and new users. The team behind The Q has worked diligently to perfect the latest release for quite some time and is looking forward to more users and supportive feedback.
