The design team of Baltimore Fashion Week has been hard at work assisting designers to make sure their showcasing experience is the best ever.

Some of the collections to showcase for the Spring 2010 collection in August 2009 are Cheryl's Fashions, LT Dickens, and EyeKandie to name a few.

Cheryl's Fashions has a distinctive sense of style. Daring, bold, but yet imaginative designs are a key representation of this collection. Cheri Fashions, LLC (<http://www.cherifashions.com>) is a company specializing in customized unique women's sportswear, eveningwear, and elegant apparel. She received a BFA in Fashion Design from the prestigious Pratt Institute of New York. Cheryl has presented her collections in New York, Baltimore, MD, and Virginia. Cheryl will be presenting her fantasy collection inspired by flying dragons from the movies "Eragon" and "The Never Ending Story" for Baltimore Fashion Week in August 2009. Cheryl has been designing since the age of five and uses vibrant colors, textures and prints throughout her one-of-a kind apparel.

LT Dickens' is a representation of sophistication at its best. Sewing since the age of 8, designing collections for Barbie dolls, LT Dickens has mastered the talents of creating chic ways to construct a garment that the first lady would be honored to wear.

EyeKandie is a collection that is pleasing to the eye and elegant all in the same breath. EyeKandie creates beautiful dresses and pant suits for the exceptional woman. Exceptional to the point where EyeKandie's collection is created for the woman that is a size 8 and up. Remember PLUS is in.

The deadline for designers interested in showcasing their collection for fashion week is Sunday, April 19, 2009. Registration is through the website www.baltimoresfashionweek.com – Fashion Week 2009/Designer Registration Form.

The collections this year will show a strong representation while telling a story to fit this year's production, Once Upon A FASHIONable Dream – A FASHIONista's Fairytale.
