

GGM Information Technology Group Renames Company DataSpring

By Scott LeRoy

Dated: Mar 12, 2009

Technology consulting firm introduces new corporate identity to reflect growth and expanded services

Charleston, South Carolina – GGM Information Technology Group (ITG), a market leader in high quality business IT and custom technology solutions, today announced the change of its name to DataSpring. Since inception, the company has stood out amongst competitors in the IT Services marketplace. This new corporate identity further distinguishes the company and reflects the commitment to providing expert technology consulting and services.

DataSpring will continue to provide a complete range of services. In addition to network design, accounting/ERP software, eCommerce and custom development services, DataSpring provides cost-saving IT services through remote system monitoring and on-site support.

The new name differentiates the company from the competition and was chosen to reflect the strong, professional and memorable quality of services they provide.

“Our name is changing, but our goal is the same as ever: to provide progressive and sustainable solutions for our customers,” said Stan Padgett, President of DataSpring. “Today’s organizations seek strong partners to extend their capabilities and we stand out. We speak the language that business leaders understand and develop the best technology solutions to fit their needs.”

With offices in Charleston and Greenville, SC, DataSpring serves small and medium sized organizations spanning markets that include manufacturing and distribution, professional services, transportation, hospitality, publishing, real estate, and not-for-profits throughout the Southeast.

###

About DataSpring

As the market leader in high quality information technology solutions, DataSpring redefines an organization’s approach and attitude toward technology. By surpassing current challenges and focusing upon the desired results, the company consistently meets and exceeds client objectives. DataSpring’s method of working in partnership with each client creates confidence and security. With offices in Charleston and Greenville, SC serving clients from Florida to Canada, DataSpring is prepared to meet your business IT needs both onsite and remotely.

Category	Technology, Computers, Business
Tags	Technology, business consulting, computer, rebrand, IT
Email	Click to email author
Phone	877.824.0908
State/Province	South Carolina
Zip	29418
Country	United States