*"We explore every avenue to build a relationship with our customers and provide the service they need."
Jim Daley, S&J transportation Vice President*

Lee, NH - S&J Transportation Services (www.SJTRANS.com) released "Shipment Tracking" to their arsenal of web tools last week. Shipment Tracking allows customers to check on the status and location of their freight from any internet connection. Information including Deliver Dates, Times, POD's. For those customers that are looking for import container information, Shipment Tracking displays last free date from the pier. Customers that use S&J Transportation to take care of their container work will now know when the container has made it through customs and processing from the pier.

"Shipment Tracking was developed to assist our customers, there are a number of companies offering a similar product. We took it one step further, most companies that offer this service require their customers to use a tracking number. This requires the customer to know this number, keep this number with the shipment, and enter this number. Our spin was to perform a search of our database looking for a number the customer already knows. An Air-Bill number, Purchase Order, Container Number, what ever is passed to us we make searchable for our customers. The goal was to make a useful, easy to use tool, and we did just that." Replies Rob Mulligan, S&J Transportation's IT Manager.

"It's interesting how our business has been transforming in the past year, our trucking company has a strong focus on quality service. This is shown here with the development of shipment tracking. We explore every avenue to build a relationship with our customers and provide the service they need." Jim Daley, S&J Transportation's Vice President

S&J Transportation also teamed up with NewRoads Distribution, LLC. (www.NewRoadsWhse.com) NewRoads Distribution is a public and commercial warehouse located in Lee, NH as well.
