

Fascia System: elegance and handiness for the Arquati SolarPro Systems S40 and S45

A new system makes its entry in the Solarpro line of Arquati USA: it is Fascia System, an innovative component which helps the installation, with a special attention to design.

April 21, 2009 - PRLog -- The American company, world market leader in retractable awnings and roller shades, adds a new flagship to the range of its components: it is Fascia System, whose structure enables an easier installation, and, thanks to the variety of fabric finishes available, it also achieves a perfect aesthetic impact.

Arquati USA has always focused its attention on innovation and research, the constant updates which characterize its products are the best and tangible proof. From retractable awnings to solar screens, from window shades to patio covers, passing through the wooden picture frames line, creating products always easy to manage, functional and up to the latest demands of interior and exterior design is the mission that guides this company. Fascia System for roller blinds fully embodies this ideal.

With a linear and modern design, it perfectly integrates the slide supports with the end applications, making the installation even more practical and easier.

The characteristics that make the product prestigious and innovative are various, first of all the possibility to refine it with fabric applications, in order to match the valances and shade fabrics. It often happens that these systems, due to their line and material features, set off with the beauty and elegance of fabrics in the decorum of windows.

Fascia System solves this problem and hides perfectly all the technical and mechanical parts. For those who do not choose this option, Fascia System is available in four modern and elegant colors, which combine with every type of fabric and finish: white, black, dark bronze and anodized silver. From a practical point of view, this system is provided with a mounting bar which facilitates and simplifies the installation of the individual elements of the retractable awning and eliminates the need to align brackets. These brackets, moreover, have been designed to fit fascias longer than 10' (ft.).
